

English for Teaching Staff course

Winter semester 2024/25

The Language Center at the University of Siegen is thrilled to announce the third English course for the Teaching Staff at the University of Siegen!

As in the previous semesters, we will be offering individual coaching sessions with Mr Ed Shillington.

Possible coaching topics:

Will you be giving a presentation in English, and have some questions about the English content that you have been working on? If so, you will have an opportunity to ask the questions during an individual session with the teacher.

If you are preparing teaching materials or lectures and need some help with phrasing, you will receive the help you need during a coaching session.

You will also have an opportunity to practise delivering lectures, teaching sessions or presentations and receive feedback which will help you improve your written and spoken English skills and gain self-confidence.

Coaching sessions will be offered on a weekly basis.

Time: 12:00pm-1:00pm on Monday

Course format: digital via Webex
